SLAYER OF SISTER.

West Rutland Woman Buries Body in the Cellar.

Rutland, Aug. 13.—As a result of evidence unearthed yesterday Mrs. Eugene McCarthy of West Rutland is at the House of Correction under arrest as the self-confessed slayer of her own sister, Miss Alice Kerrigan, an elderly spinster, whose body was found buried in the cellar of her home on Pleasant street under a few inches of earth yesterday afternoon by the officers. Mrs. McCarthy, according to the authorities, has admitted the murder, and says she shot her elder sister to death last Friday with a shot gun, as the woman lay on the lounge in the living room. She later dragged the body through the house to the inside cellar door, and down the steps to the earth floor, where, unassisted, she dug a hole and buried her burden, which was undiscovered until yesterday. The authorities and friends are at a loss to imagine a motive for the deed, but the general opinion of relatives seems to be that Mrs. McCarthy committed the crime under the combined influences of nervous rage and insanity.

All the parties lived together in the large old Kerrigan home on Pleasant street, the murdered woman and her father, Michael Kerrigan, occupying the lower floor, and the McCarthy family, consisting of the imprisoned woman, her husband and eight children, the upper floor. The house, while by no means secluded, is set back a short distance from the highway so that the movements of the occupants are not easily discerned by passers-by.

The woman under arrest fixes the time of the slaying as Friday afternoon while she and her victim were alone in the house. She says she was enraged with her sister, and finally went to her own apartments upstairs and secured a shotgun, returning through the hall and firing at Alice Kerrigan from the door of the living room, as she lay resting, but not asleep, upon a lounge. The shot entered the woman's breast, death from the injury and shock being almost instantaneous. At this time their father was working in the garden. First assuring herself that no one had heard the report of the gun Mrs. McCarthy dragged the body down into the cellar and digging a hole barely large enough to hold it, laid it beneath about six inches of dirt, and covered the spot with two tubs.

In her story Mrs. McCarthy implicates no other member of the household and denies, so far as can be learned, that any other person even suspected her act. Whether any other arrest will follow cannot be learned, but none had been made at a late hour Wednesday.

Celebrate 150th Anniversary.

Orwell will celebrate next Monday the 150th anniversary of the chartering of the town, and a general invitation is extended to the public. Former residents of Orwell will be especially welcome. The program for the day includes a ball game, Pittsford against Orwell, at 10 o'clock, as well as other sports. Dinner will be served at a moderate price in the rooms under the town hall and in the afternoon there will be an historical address by Charles I. Button of Middlebury, and an address by Pres. John M. Thomas of Middlebury College. The Brandon concert band will furnish music during the day. There will be an exhibit of antiques in town hall. The various committees in charge are sparing no pains to make the affair a success.

Makes Another Rescue.

The Montpelier Morning Journal of Wednesday, August 13, has the following concerning a Middlebury boy:

James C. Kenworthy, porter at the Montpelier Aouse, made another sensational rescue yesterday noon, when a woman attempted to board train No. 2 as it was pulling out of the station at about 12.01.

The train had got a good start and had it not been for the assistance Kenworthy gave her, the woman probably would have been thrown under the wheels as she was hampered by her skirts and nearly lost her balance. As it was she succeeded in boarding the train safely.

STATIONERY SUPPLIES

LITTLE THINGS often cause much annoyance. STATIONERY is one of these. The poor kind always displeases. If you buy at the right place, it is just as easy to have that which is good in quality, suitable in style and low in price as it is to have the trashy kind. We buy our stationery from one of the best stationery houses in America, and the new and correct creations come to us as soon as they are out. We always have a nice assortment of these box papers, bulk papers by the pound or ream and all the little items that help to make writing a pleasure. You'll like our stationery supplies and our prices make buying easy.
